Cary Allison Hegg, 34, died from injuries suffered when the car she was riding in - driven by John Haywoodbaize of Diamondhead - went through the intersection at Hwy. 90 and Hwy. 603.

Waveland Police Chief James Varnell said in a statement issued Thursday that it appears Haywoodbaize was eastbound on Hwy. 90 in the turning lane, turning

15th Annual 'Radio for Red Cross' blood drive set July 8-10 on Coast

Casino Magic Bay St. Louis to sponsor drive on Tuesday at Bay Tower Hotel

Blood donors save lives. Every two seconds, someone just like you finds themselves depending on a generous blood donor for help.

You can join the "Radio for Red Cross" Lifesaving Team by giving blood during the 15th Annual "Radio for Red Cross" blood drive.

Join your favorite radio station as they team up with the American Red Cross this summer to save lives.

The blood drive will be held on Tuesday, July 8, at Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis in the Bay Tower Hotel Cypress Cove Ballrooms B and C, on Wednesday, July 9, at Edgewater Mall in Biloxi near the Carousel and on Thursday, July 10, at Singing River Mall in Gautier in the Variety Outlet space between McRae's and Penney's. The hours are noon until 7 p.m. all three days.

This year's blood drive is sponsored by Memorial Hospital, Premier Fitness and Hancock Bank along with thirteen radio stations including 92.5 KISS FM, Magic 93.7, Classic Rock 295.3, Molly 96.7, 97.9 WCPK, K99 FM, Coast 102, V104.9, Classic Rock 105.9, The Monkey 107.1, Kicker 108, Sports Radio 1490 and Talk Radio 1640 WTNI.

As a thank you for giving blood, donors will receive a commemorative "Radio for Red Cross" T-shirt, a free chicken sandwich coupon from Chick-fil-A, a free Pepsi product, from Pepsi-

Cola Bottling Company of Gulfport, three free tanning sessions from Planet Beach, a coupon for two free gourmet cookies from Cookies By Design, a coupon for a free buffet from Sicily's Ultimate Italian Buffet and a free one-week trial membership from Premier Fitness.

Supervised childcare will be provided while you

Tower Hotel at Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis along with dinner for two at the Jourdan River Grille.

High school and college donors are encouraged to give blood at the "Radio for Red Cross" blood drive. Students account for about 25 percent of the blood collected in our area during the school year.

The high school and college that has the most students give blood at this drive will win a free DJ party from the participating radio station of their choice after school resumes. You must be at least 17 years old and weigh 110 pounds to donate blood, have not donated in the past 56 days and be in good health.

A recent change has been made in the eligibility requirements for donating blood. People who have received chemotherapy in the past may now be able to donate if it has been at least five years since their treatments and their cancer has not recurred.

All blood types are critically needed. Supplies have already dropped to dangerously low levels this summer in most parts of the country including the Gulf Coast Region. For more information about joining the "Radio for Red Cross" Lifesaving Team, call the American Red Cross at 228-896-2217 or your local Red Cross Chapter.

If you would like to volunteer to help work at the blood drives, contact Tori at 228-896-4511 or Cathy at 228-762-2455.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

There are still two very big July 4th weekend events continuing today, the Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, Bay St. Louis' Crab Fest and the 55th annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo in Gulfport.

Events resume at 11 a.m. until 10 p.m. tonight at the OLG Crab Fest in Bay St. Louis. At 6 a.m. the Kingfish Classic resumes and the Bass Shootout begins. Wondering what you are going to eat today, you may want to try the delicious food at the OLG Crab Fest. All types of seafoods and other food favorites will be available. Activities are for folks of all ages at the Crab Fest, as there is a Kiddie Land, arts and crafts and all types of booths for fair goers.

Entertainment begins from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Crab Fest with Southbound and from 6 to 10 p.m. by Shea Michaels band.

Many folks, who do not participate in the Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo to view the fish on display and entertainment. The scales close at 4 p.m.

Final entertainment for the day will be Garland Moran and The Night Travelers scheduled for 8 p.m. The OLG Crab Fest ends at 10 p.m. this evening and the Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo activities at midnight. I hope you all will have a great time.

It is always good to get away on vacation. Jane and I returned Tuesday night from a nine-day journey that highlighted the states of Illinois and Wisconsin.

Over the past 12 years, or so we have been traveling with Hancock Bank's Classic Club and have enjoyed the making of new friends and travel companions. Our last trip was with BankcorpSouth's Lively Ones and we had a great time too. There were 34 of us from across the state. Even with it being a trip of about 3,500 miles via bus, it was a wonderful time.

Our first night was spent in Puducah, Kentucky, we spent the night at a motel on the banks of the Ohio river.

This trip was the first for us in the state's of Illinois and Wisconsin.

We spent two days in Chicago, and had a guide who was raised in the city's suburbs, who gave us some very great tours. We also had a dinner cruise on Lake Superior was great.

One of our luncheons was at Marshall Field's famous Walnut Room. This being the world's second largest department store is a treat in itself. We spent a night at Spring Green, Wisconsin, and of course, we visited the House on the Rock, which would take a lot of space to explain. Then onto Bayfield where we toured Madeline Island and the next morning cruised around the Apostle Islands. Our next arrival was at Green Bay for two days. The dinner that night was a highlight for many, as it was at Hancock County native son's restaurant, Brett Favre's Steakhouse, just a very short distance from the Packer's stadium.

It is a tremendous restaurant and I really enjoyed my prime rib dinner. We visited Door County the next day which has so many interesting points of interest and our guide was native to the area and we had a great tour there too.

That night's dinner was a Fish Boil, and all I can say is that I have eaten better prepared fish.

BankcorpSouth's Vivian Hanson and Arlene Canaan were great hosts and thanks for a great trip.

It is great traveling with BankcorpSouth's Lively Ones, as well as Hancock Bank's Classic Club with Peggy Newman, they have great trips. If you haven't, you may want to give it a try.

P.S. In my next column I will make some observations one of my pet projects, litter.

Remembering and celebrating freedom

July 4th is a time to celebrate our nation's freedom. Freedom is the primary trait that has defined America for more than 200 years.

Even though we take our freedom for granted sometimes, when our Declaration of Independence was signed on July 4th 1776, freedom for common people was a novel concept among nations.

For America, freedom is the driving force behind our success. We should keep this in mind, not just on July 4th but year-round.

From the Senate

By U.S. Sen. Trent Lott

I've heard various theories on why some nations succeed while others fail. Folks have speculated on all types of causes for that everything from family structure, work ethic, and even climate.

However, I think it is personal freedom - the freedom to worship as you see fit, the freedom to choose your own career, the freedom to choose your city or town, the freedom to raise a family, and the freedom to innovate.

Without freedom, what incentive is there for people to better themselves? Without a way for people to better themselves, how can a nation achieve?

Former Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu once illustrated this concept in a speech.

He asked the audience: What set America apart from the old Soviet Union during the Cold War?

Why did one nation fail and the other succeed? Both nations had about the same population. Both nations had vast amounts of good land and natural resources.

In fact the Soviet Union had more in terms of raw materials. The Soviets also had very capable, educated people. Her scientists, engineers, mathematicians, artists, and on down the line, were just as good or better than those anywhere else. There was certainly no shortage of physical and mental matter in the Soviet Union or the ability to shape that matter into something valuable.

Aware of their potential, in the tradition of centralized, communist planning, the Soviets built entire cities around certain industries and themes - places dedicated to one particular state goal with the nation's best brains in those fields put in one place, working together.

Yet, as Netanyahu point-

LOTT-5A

VISION PROBLEM

THAT'S JUST NOT CLEAR TO ME.

Let's talk about politics, fairness & deceit - or not!

Candidates for the Hancock County School District's Superintendent race have been announced - Let's see there is EVERYBODY, SOMEBODY, ANYBODY, and NOBODY.

Guess that's who we have to choose from this time around.

How many times has this school district been in the media compared to other school districts and how many times has it been on a negative note?

Quite a few times and Hancock county residents should be questioning why.

Could it be because of the ongoing good ole boy politics and deceit? Having been an employee of Hancock County school system for 10 years, I was recently forced to resign after a year of going through worry, stress, and aggravation.

After the following the chain of command as I was instructed to do, nothing was ever done about problems that exist at Hancock Middle school. Politics and deceit as we all know go hand in hand in this school district as it always has and continues today. The constant turnover in employment is a result of the political practices. At this very moment, there are many dedicated and well qualified teachers as well as other staff members who are looking elsewhere for employment. The lack of support, communication, deceitfulness, and non-concern from the current administration has to be the biggest reason good people are leaving. Yes, that means from the district level as well as from the site administrators. Many may view this letter as a voice coming from a disgruntled employee. Believe me, I have every right to be disgruntled, just ask many of the people I have worked with over the years. I have to say that the feelings of being disappointed, disgusted and oppressed are far greater than being disgruntled.

Many others share the same because of the actions or should I say lack of actions by those who are in the position to make decisions but do not. In order to bring back fairness and equality to all, changes must be made before other dedicated employees are forced to leave Hancock County School District.

Sincerely,

LaRhonda Ladner
Perkinson

Deficits and debt are the greatest threats to the nation

On Wednesday, June 25, I took action to force the House of Representatives to vote on a Balanced Budget Amendment to the Constitution.

I filed a motion called a "discharge petition," which would discharge balanced budget legislation from the Judiciary Committee. After the discharge petition is signed by 218 Members of the House, the balanced budget amendment will be debated and voted on by the full House.

Congress has not voted on the balanced budget amendment since 1995 when it passed the House with 300 votes and narrowly missed the required two-thirds margin in the Senate. The House also voted on a balanced budget amendment in 1990, 1992, and 1994.

Many current Members of the House, including Speaker Dennis Hastert, supported the amendment and spoke passionately on the floor about the need for an amendment to the Constitution.

Taylor -- debt & deficit

During debate on the amendment in 1994, then-Member-Hastert said, "I will not stand by and watch Congress recklessly squander the future of our children and grandchildren ... In light of Congress' exhibited inability to control spending and vote for fiscal responsibility, it is imperative that we have a balanced budget amendment to compel Congress to end its siege on our financial future."

Since Speaker Hastert made that statement, the debt has increased by more than two trillion dollars from $4.55 trillion to $6.685 trillion.

When the Democrats were the majority party in Congress, many party leaders opposed a balanced budget amendment. I disagreed with them, but at least they were honest about their intentions.

The Republicans gained the Presidency and the Congressional majority by running on a platform of fiscal responsibility, promising to balance the budget, protect the Social Security surplus, and pay down the debt.

Instead of fulfilling those promises, the Bush Administration and the Republican Congressional leadership have practiced a pattern of deception about the budget and the fiscal impact of their proposals. They have cut taxes and increased spending, yet have had the audacity to continue to call themselves fiscally responsible.

In his March 24, 2001, radio address to the nation, President Bush promised, "My budget protects all $2.6 trillion of the Social Security surplus for Social Security, and for Social Security alone. ... It pays down the national debt faster than any country has ever repaid its debt before. ... It establishes a contingency fund for unexpected needs. And it provides a reasonable 4-percent increase in discretionary government spending - that is, 4 percent after we have paid every promised dime for Social Security and Medicare. Then, after meeting all these priorities, we return about $1 out of every $4 in the surplus to the American taxpayer."

The President and the Republican Congress promised to pay down the national debt, but the debt has increased by more than $1 trillion since his first budget and tax plan passed Congress in May 2001. Their own budget now projects the debt to grow to $12 trillion by 2013, and yet they schedule more tax cuts and more spending increases.

Over the past 20 years, two-thirds of the increased holdings of public debt securities were purchased by foreign investors.

We owe $1.25 trillion to foreign nations and investors, including $389 billion to Japan and $119 billion to Communist China.

The President and the Republican Congress promised to protect the Social Security and Medicare annual surpluses in a "lock-box," but instead all the surpluses have been borrowed and spent to pay for deficit-spending. The Social Security trust funds hold $1.4 trillion of IOUs, and Medicare trust funds hold $272 billion in IOUs. We also owe $583 billion to the federal employees retirement fund and $177 billion to the military retirement fund to repay funds that should have been saved to pay future benefits.

I have spoken on the House floor repeatedly on behalf of fiscal responsibility.

The sixteen young House pages in the attached photo helped me illustrate that by May 31, our national debt had increased $914,878,724,867 in just two years and a few weeks under Republican budgets. Just one month later, the amount of new debt under this President's policies has surpassed one trillion dollars. The pages, their generation, and their children after them, will be stuck paying off this Administration's debts. Unfortunately, no one gives soft money to political parties for balancing the budget, so neither party's leadership is concerned about fiscal responsibility. The leaders of the Republican Party have adopted deficit spending at levels that even the most liberal Democrat would be too ashamed to propose. It is past time to make them honor their commitments to balance the budget and pay down the debt. The Republican budget plan for a decade of $500 billion annual deficits leading up to the retirement of the baby-boom generation is a greater threat to the stability and security of the United States than is any threat posed by a foreign nation or terrorist organization.

I want each member of Congress to have their vote recorded on the Balanced Budget Amendment. Then I want each member of Congress to go home and explain to their constituents why they voted the way they did. I want them to explain what that vote will mean in ten, twenty, and thirty years. History has shown that countries fail either militarily or economically. I have the utmost confidence in our military. The weakness of the United States is its disregard for fiscal responsibility and our greatest obstacle is the financial burden that waits for us in the future.

ed out, those people still were not free. They could not profit freely from their many innovations and talents. They were not free to own a home or land. They had no basic freedoms guaranteed by a written constitution.

Under these circumstances, with the goals of the state supplanting those of the individuals, the only entity with freedom is the state, not the people.

The personal freedom articulated so eloquently by our Founding Fathers two centuries ago is the cornerstone of our nation's success.

It's why folks like Henry Ford, Thomas Edison and Bill Gates succeeded independently — profiting from their success and spreading it to others, without some centralized state-sponsored program.

Freedom has given me — the son of a pipe fitter and school teacher — the opportunity to live the American Dream, to start from very humble beginnings and to become your Senator, and a representative of 2.8 million other Mississippians.

I'm sure you can point to things in your own life that are the result of freedom. Personal freedom is why we can read this column in a newspaper that is free to print what its publishers see fit.

Personal freedom is why we don't have to worry about someone oppressing us for our religious or political views. Freedom is why someone can write a letter to this newspaper disagreeing with everything I say here, without fear of reprisal from the government or our fellow citizens.

Without freedom, all the brain power and physical resources in the world cannot make a successful, enduring nation. As we saw in the Soviet Union, in Eastern Europe, in Saddam's Iraq and in the Taliban's Afghanistan, totalitarian states may last for a season, but without freedom they cannot long endure.

Even the most cynical critic of America has to acknowledge freedom's success here, and in every place in which freedom has taken hold since the advent of America's example — in Western Europe; in Japan, South Korea and in nations throughout the world which have emulated our traditions of personal freedom and representative government. Freedom truly is something worth celebrating on July 4th and worth remembering every day.

Join the Major Leagues @ your library

Batter up! Find out how you can "Join the Major Leagues @ Your Library™" and win two tickets to the 2003 Major League Baseball World Series®.

The Hancock County Library System, the American Library System (ALA) and Major League Baseball (MLB) are joining together to invite people of all ages to participate in this program. "Join the Major Leagues @ Your Library™" is designed to help children and adults build their 21st century information literacy skills. Everyone who successfully completes the program will be eligible to win two tickets to a designated game of the 2003 Major League Baseball World Series®.

Beginning Monday, July 7, players can pick up a copy of their Major Leagues Playbook appropriate for their age group (10 and under, 11-13; 14-17; and 18 and up) at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County, the Kiln Public Library or the Pearllington Public Library. The Playbook poses a series of baseball-related questions to test players' information literacy skills. The program runs through September 12.

To kick off the program, a special reading of Casey at the Bat will be held on Tuesday, July 8, at 10 a.m. at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library.

Ian Schneider, who plays with the Waveland Little League, believes in the importance of reading and supports Join the Major Leagues @ your library program.

"Reading is essential, but not enough," explains Prima Plauché, library system director. "We must also know how to use computers and other media to find and evaluate information we need. Libraries are the ultimate information resource and librarians are the ultimate search engine who can help you find what you are looking for -- whether in print or online."

By testing players' information literacy skills, "Join the Major Leagues @

Your Library™" will also help children and adults better understand how libraries and librarians can help them.

The program challenges players to answer questions like "Who was the highest paid baseball player in 1966?" How many players have hit four home runs in one game?" and "How much does the Toronto Skydome weigh?"

Players are encouraged to look up the answers using both print and online resources at the school, campus and/or public library.

One grand prize winner will travel to a designated game of the 2003 Major League Baseball World Series. Twelve first place prizes will be awarded, including a copy of Jackie's Nine: Jackie Robinson's Values To Live By, a book written by his daughter Sharon, a "Join the Major Leagues @ Your Library™" T-shirt and a READ poster featuring Jackie Robinson. Winners will be notified in early October.

Major League Baseball is a founding partner in @ your library™. The Campaign for America's Libraries, a multi-year public education campaign sponsored by ALA about the value of libraries and librarians in the 21st century.

Other founding partners are 3M Library Systems, the Center for the Book in the Library of Congress, the International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions (IFLA), Morningstar Foods, Inc., maker of Hershey's Milk, Wells Fargo Home Mortgage and Woman's Day Magazine.

For more information on the program, see www.ala.org/yourlibrary/jointheleague, or call the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library at 467-5282. More information on Major League Baseball is available at www.mlb.com.

Mississippi Arts Commission announces first round of Fiscal Year 2004 grants

The Mississippi Arts Commission has granted $1.1 million in funding to 179 artists and arts programs across the state for fiscal year 2004.

A total of $1.1 million in operating and project grants, Whole Schools grants, fellowships and apprenticeships was awarded on July 1 to 43 counties. An additional $60,000 will be awarded through Minigrants during the coming year.

"The Commission, with the continued support of the state legislature, has been able to provide grants to many wonderful artists and organizations, who will enhance the quality of life in communities across Mississippi," said commission executive director Tim Hedgepeth.

Hedgepeth said each grant application was reviewed by a group of panelists with artistic, managerial and educational expertise. The agency's Board of Commissioners then reviewed the panels, recommendations before final funding decisions were made.

In addition to the grants awarded, 16 Mississippi artists were approved for a listing in the Commission's annual Artist Roster.

The Commission's Building Fund for the Arts (BFA) program also received additional support. Funded through general obligation bonds, BFA is designed to give the arts a stronger presence within Mississippi's communities. BFA monies are used for the renovation, repair, expansion and enhancement of cultural facilities. The legislature has made possible a third round of BFA grants to be awarded later this fiscal year.

And in May, the Commission announced its newest grants program during its Take Part! Building Diversity in Arts Participation conference. The Commission was one of 13 state arts agencies that received funding from the Wallace-Reader's Digest Funds' START initiative.

The initiative's intent is to inspire participating state arts agencies to adopt new, more effective programs, practices and strategies aimed at encouraging broader public participation in the arts. The Commission's Take Part! Grant Program will award funding to five to seven Mississippi organizations with strong proposals for building and diversifying their audiences. The deadline for the Letter of Intent to Apply for the Take Part! Grant Program is July 15.

For more information on the Commission's grants programs, including the new Take Part! initiative, visit the agency's Web site, www.art.state.ms.us.

The Mississippi Arts Commission is a state agency, funded by the Mississippi legislature, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Wallace-Reader's Digest Funds, the U.S. Department of Education and other public and private sources.

Local Scientist receives U.S. Navy Meritorious Civilian Service Award

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Dr. Brenda J. Little's pioneering innovations and advancements in electron microscopy, biomineralization, and corrosion mechanisms have made great strides in furthering the U.S. Navy as a world leader in identifying and understanding microbiologically influenced corrosion. It is for these achievements that she was awarded the third highest award a Navy civilian employee can earn - the Navy Meritorious Civilian Service Award.

This award is presented for extraordinary service, specific achievements and/or accomplishments, or heroism in a life-threatening situation. Dr. Little's award recognized her meritorious achievements and dedication to the United States Navy and the Naval Research Laboratory (NRL) while serving as the Senior Scientist for Marine Molecular Processes Branch.

The citation reads, in part, "Her achievements have led to the development of new hypotheses, concepts, and techniques that have had direct and lasting impact on the operational fleet, including the development of solutions to corrosion problems. Her vision and dedication to the United States Navy for 27 years has led to significant contributions in the advancement of the science of molecular processes and its application to microbially influenced corrosion (MIC) problems. The distinctive work of Dr. Little continues to be herald as significant research relevant to the operational missions of the United States Navy."

As Senior Scientist, Dr. Little applies extensive scientific insight, expertise, and creativity to a wide range of problems in research chemistry, adsorption, biofouling, corrosion, biodegradation, and bioremediation processes. She provides scientific expertise and direction, and leads her research terms in the development of new and innovative approaches to the characterization and quantification of marine molecular processes.

"Her theories and innovation have altered our ability to measure and our fundamental understanding of the relationship between microorganisms and corrosion products," said Steve Payne, Acting Superintendent of NRL's Oceanography Division.

Dr. Little was the first to use environmental scanning to demonstrate artifacts introduced into biofilms by the dehydration and fixation procedures used by previous scanning electron microscope studies. This groundbreaking work is the first to evaluate metal/microbe interactions in a hydrated environment.

Her work with biomineralization has allowed the identification of mineralogical fingerprints for MIC of copper and iron alloys. Dr. Little demonstrated that biological processes results in the formation of minerals not predicted by thermodynamic arguments.

Little's research in MIC has enabled the field to progress from phenomenological case studies to a mature interdisciplinary science. Her research here has been used to solve corrosion problems in seawater piping systems, wire highlines, and weapon cooling systems.

Dr. Little has maintained a record of superior performance since her initial employment with NRL in 1976 (then known as the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity) in the Biological and Chemical Oceanography Branch. She moved to Supervisory Oceanographer, Acting Branch Head in 1985, Principal Investigator, Biological and Chemical Oceanography Branch in 1986, Supervisory Research Chemist in 1992, and Senior Scientist in 1996.

She was awarded the NRL Alan Berman Research Publication Awards three times and the Best Patent and Publication Award. Dr. Little serves on the Editorial Boards for the Journals of Corrosion, Biofouling, and Trends in Corrosion Research, and on the National Association of Corrosion Engineers (NACE) Research and Publication Committees. She is an adjunct professor for Montana State University and the University of Southern Mississippi.

Her publications include over 75 primary authored journal articles, numerous book chapters and technical reports and notes, she has received a patent, and she has been recognized by other professional organizations, including Women in Science and Engineering, and NACE.

Dr. Little earned her bachelor of science degree in biology/chemistry from Baylor University, Waco, Texas, and her doctorate in chemistry from Tulane University, New Orleans. She credits her high school chemistry teacher, Ms. Jerry Baier, with having encouraged her to pursue a college education in chemistry. Dr. Little resides in Diamondhead.

County eligible for disaster loans

Emergency loans for farmers, ranchers, and operators are available through the Pearl River/ Hancock County Office of the Farm Service Agency, according to Jackie D. Williams, FSA Farm Loan Manager.

Williams said this authority is pursuant to President Bush's declaration on February 21, 2003, of a major disaster in Louisiana, caused by the Loss of the Space Shuttle Columbia that occurred on February 1, 2003. As a result of this disaster, Hancock County as a contiguous county in Mississippi is named as an area eligible for Federal Disaster assistance pursuant to Section 321 (a) of the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act.

Applications for assistance in the disaster-stricken county will be accepted by FSA through October 21, 2003.

Farmers qualifying for emergency loans may borrow up to 100 percent of their actual production loss or the amount needed to restore their operation to its pre-disaster condition, whichever is less. The new emergency loan and outstanding principal balance of any existing emergency loan owed by the applicant or any individual member of an entity cannot exceed $500,000.00.

FSA emergency loans cover losses from designated disasters and are made to qualified farmers who cannot obtain credit from other lenders in the local area.

Car tags to cost more in Mississippi's new fiscal year

BY EMILY WAGSTER
PETTUS
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi drivers are about to get another reason to complain about the high cost of car tags.

Even though the price of most tags will dip because vehicles will get a year older, the dip will be smaller than it might have been.

That means folks will be shelling out more than expected to renew their tags in the fiscal year that started Tuesday.

Some see that as a tax increase. Others, such as Hinds County Tax Collector Bill Burrow, insist it's not an increase, it's just a smaller decrease on an aging vehicle.

Randy Ladner, director for office of revenue for the state Tax Commission, estimated the increase could range from $10 to $30 for many drivers.

"It would have to be a pretty expensive car for it to be a few hundred dollars more," Ladner said Tuesday.

Tag prices vary from county to county. The value of the car or truck also affects the price, the newer the vehicle, the more expensive the tag.

The increase in tag prices is coming, indirectly, because of an increase in the collective value of all cars and trucks on the road, Ladner said. More new vehicles have been sold in recent years because of zero percent financing and other dealer incentives.

Also, the state Tax Commission is giving counties a smaller percentage of money for a car tag reduction fund.

The fund, set up by the 1994 Legislature, is based on a complicated formula.

As of Jan. 1, 1995, taxes on car and truck sales increased from 3 percent to 5 percent. The additional money goes into a fund and is passed on to counties. The counties, in turn, reduce local taxes that are paid through car tags.

The result: Consumers pay more to buy a vehicle but less to renew their car tags each year, and counties are supposed to come out even on tax collections.

The state Tax Commission meets each May to estimate how much money should be available for the reduction fund in the fiscal year that starts July 1.

Ladner said though the percentage of reimbursement has changed, the dollar figure has not changed significantly this fiscal year. But because of the increased collective value of vehicles, the counties would need more money to reimburse the same tag tax reductions that were given in the last fiscal year.

That's where the consumers' price increase comes in.

Kempe Hodges, tax collector and assessor for Attala County, said taxpayers have been happier since car tag prices dipped nearly a decade ago. He said few people know about the new increase.

"Certainly, we're going to get feedback from it because it's going to cause people's taxes to go up," Hodges said.

What goes up this year, could come down later.

"I feel like this is something that is going to be short lived," Hodges said.

Taxes collected on motor vehicles and other property in the cities and counties pay for local government services and the public schools.

Burrow said 40 percent of the cars and trucks in Hinds County are at least a decade old. He said those tags will increase by 50 cents each.

Rape -- statutory

Interim Chief Investigator Kenny Hurt said Wednesday.

"We had two warrants which were issued by Justice Court for the arrest of Shiyou. One was for the alleged statutory rape of a 14-year-old girl and the other a 15-year-old girl. The incidents were alleged to have occurred in 2003,"

Hurt said.

Shiyou is charged with having sex with an underage girl in both of the incidents, Hurt added.

Guard pets from heatstroke

Heat Stroke Syndrome in a pet results when the heat regulatory mechanisms of its body, i.e., radiation, conduction, evaporation and convection are overwhelmed and its body's core temperatures reach 105F to 115F. Any sustained temperatures greater than 108F is critical and can be fatal, even for short periods.

Heat Stroke Syndrome is caused by a pet owner's ignorance, indifference, or risk taking, and in a perfect world should be prevented by education. However, even with an abundance of articles, speeches, TV spots and client handouts on the subject, we still have thousands of pets dying each year of Heat Stroke Syndrome. Pets are still being trapped in cars, over exercised in the summer heat, and chained in yards with no water or shade.

Why? Does the fault lie with the pet owning public, or the educators? A great deal of the fault lies with we educators. We are not teaching our lesson on Heat Stroke Syndrome in a manner that fully presents its horrors.

We must teach pet owners to fully understand the physical, psychological, and financial pain that are involved so as to curb their indifference and risk taking. People stop at stop signs or train crossings, not because of the sign or flashing lights, but because of future wallet pain or immediate train on body pain.

Let's take a real case, Summer, 2001. Two dogs suffered heat stroke after being left in a car in the sun for four hours with the windows cracked two inches, while the mother and three children took the boat to Ship Island.

Let's talk about the physiological events and pain of what happened to the two dogs in simple non-technical terms.

Feeling of impending death.

Bloody vomiting, diarrhea, and stomach ulceration.

Brain bleeding and swelling, convulsions, seizures,

Hallucinations, delirium and migraine type headaches.

Nausea, low blood pressure, weakness, lack of oxygen to all cells of the body, thirst and dehydration.

Breathing rate greater than 80, lungs slowly filling with blood and fluids.

Angina (heart attack pain), heart rate greater than 200, and strokes.

Melting, softening, cramping and lactic acid build-up of all skeletal muscles in the body.

Could a medical expert design a more cruel death? NO!

Are the complications resulting from heat stroke expensive to treat? YES!

Do pets survive heat stroke without some vital organ damage? USUALLY NOT!

Can 10 minutes of being enclosed in a car, 5 minutes of summer heat, excessive exercise or direct sun cause heat stroke? YES!

Remember, the severity and outcome of heat stroke is time and temperature dependent. Not all pets with heat stroke die. Immediate recognition (panting) and cooling are the keys to the survival of someone you love. If you suspect your pet of having heat stroke (panting, salivation, hot body and fast heart rate):

Do: spray the pet with water and cool it with an electric fan, or in front of an air conditioner vent before and while the pet is transported to your veterinarian.

Don't: use ice water or rubbing alcohol.

I leave you with an image that is crude, horrible, and certainly in poor taste. Hopefully this will dissuade anyone from thinking heat stroke is a mild condition and can be treated with indifference or risk taking.

"There is no way to not have physical, psychological, and financial pain when you fast or slow cook a pet!"

Meth -- lab busted

Chris Russell of the Hancock County Narcotics Division, said Thursday.

"A male subject who was owner of the residence was reported as being found by a friend collapsed by Road Deputy Charles LaFontaine, the first officer at the scene," Russell said.

Michael Lee Brayson, 30, 1149 Rock Ranch Road, Carriere and wife, Tracey Brayson, 40, were both charged for the alleged possession of precursors and manufacture of a controlled substance. Bond was set at $40,000 each, Russell said.

Russell, the agent in charge of the investigation, reported Deputy LaFontaine observed the smell of ammonia and summoned the Drug Narcotics Division. Capt. Matt Karl, Agents Clifford (Bubba) Malley, Johnny Ailson and Russell all responded.

The resident's owner who collapsed and friend who found him, who also breathed the alleged ammonia manufacturing, were both taken to the Picayune hospital, treated and released.

Russell, an OSHA Hazmat certified First Responder, said he suited up, surveyed and assessed the scene and discovered what appeared to be anhydrous ammonia and other utensils for the manufacture of a methamphetamine lab.

He then summoned a DEA contractor to come and do a cleanup of the residence, he said.

"The Brayson couple were said to have been friends of the homeowner. They were first approached by the homeowner and asked if they were cooking drugs and said no, then exited the house. Then the property owner went to the laundry room of the house and smelled a strong odor, picked up a white bucket and collapsed," Russell reported.

There is a possibility that the Grayson's may also be charged additionally with Human Endangerment, Russell added.

The Pearl River County Sheriff's Department has also placed a hold on both Michael and Tracey Brayson, Russell said.

north onto Hwy. 603 "and failed to yield the right of way" to a vehicle driven by Waveland resident Scott Tartavouille that was westbound on Hwy. 90.

Tartavouille's vehicle "struck the vehicle Haywoodbaize was driving in the right front passenger door, which spun the vehicle Haywoodbaize was driving into the southbound lane of Hwy. 603," Varnell said. Haywoodbaize's vehicle then struck a third vehicle which had stopped for the red light. The driver of that vehicle suffered minor injuries, Varnell said.

"All of the other victims refused medical treatment or transport to a hospital by American Medical Response," Varnell said.

Hancock County Coroner Norma Stiglet pronounced Hegg dead at the scene. Members of the Waveland Fire Department used the "Jaws of Life" to remove her from the wreckage.

Hegg is survived by her husband Steven M. Hegg; two daughters, Shanley, 14, and Erin, 5; a son, Brendan, 11; her parents, Gail and James E. Hunt Jr. of Diamondhead; three sisters and a brother; six nephews; and two nieces.

The accident is still under investigation by officers of the Waveland Police Department, with assistance by the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

The boat "Olloli" belonging to Diamondhead Yacht Club Commodore Ray Sheehy gets underway at the Diamondhead marina on Thursday for the club's annual 4th of July boat parade. Riding on board are Army Reserve Sgts. David Wells and Bobby Eure (black berets) from Keesler Air Force Base, with their wives sitting in the bow, and Navy Petty Officers 1st Class Gus Bishop and Chris Monahan from Special Boat Team Twenty-Two based at Stennis Space Center. Sheehy invited 16 members of the armed forces to ride in this year's parade as a special salute to the military. Wells and Eure are presently augmenting Keesler's security force while members of the base's regular force serve overseas. Bishop and Monahan rode in Thursday night's parade to support two of their team's assault boats which engaged in a mock battle with two Russian-designed YAK 52 airplanes flown by Marty Duke and Mario Feola of Diamondhead. Hundreds of spectators witnessed the event.

Therapeutic riding center fund-raiser

The results of the 11-year-old Gaits to Success program are obvious to see in testimonials from students and parents.

"When I'm on the horses, I'm free of autism. I am perfect." Said Lizzie Richardson of Waveland.

Said Johnathan Androff of Slidell, La.: "I have cerebral palsy. This is one thing I can do just like everyone else."

Kelly Torguson of Diamondhead said her 3-1/2 year-old son could not yet walk or talk when he enrolled in the program. "Since starting the Gaits to Success program, his sense of balance and lower body strength have really improved."

Gaits to Success, South Mississippi's only therapeutic riding center for people with physical, emotional or mental disabilities is hosting its annual fund-raiser on Saturday, July 19.

The nonprofit organization operates on a $50,000 annual budget out of a stable in Kiln. It has two paid employees who care for the horses and four certified instructors who receive stipends to defray travel costs. Other expenses include horse feed, veterinarian and blacksmith fees, insurance, a note on the 10-acre property and special equipment which costs more than ordinary riding tack.

More than 40 volunteers donate their time and talents to the program.

Therapeutic riding uses horses for exercise to improve mobility, concentration, self-discipline and confidence in both children and adults. Most of the riders at Gaits to Success are youngsters who suffer from cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis, spinal cord or brain injuries, autism, learning disabilities and other problems stemming either from birth or later trauma.

Because the movement of the horse is similar to a normal person's walking gait, the program helps improve neurological function and sensory processing. The action of the horse relaxes and stimulates unused muscles, increases joint mobility and improves balance and coordination.

Gaits to Success is a member of the North American Riding for the Handicapped Association. Both the American Occupational Therapy Association and the American Physical Therapy Association recognize the benefits of therapeutic horseback riding.

The fund-raiser, which includes a $2,500 draw-down, will begin at 6 p.m. at the Hancock County Civic Center on Longfellow Drive. A shrimp Creole dinner will be served from 6 to 8 p.m. Besides the draw-down, the event will include numerous raffles and door prizes.

Set-ups will be available, so you're encouraged to BYOB.

Tickets, at $25 each will admit two. Businesses or individuals who would like to contribute door prizes, gift certificates or other items for the fund-raiser are encouraged to call Terri or Mary at 467-1402 for details. For tickets call the same number. Tickets also will be available at the door.

Umbrella palm thrives anywhere it's planted

BY NORMAN WINTER
MSU Horticulturist
Central Mississippi
Research & Extension Center

The past couple of weeks have seen my woodland trails look like small, flowing tributaries of the Mississippi River. My dry creek has been flowing, and more rain is coming.

What kind of plant can tolerate such wet conditions? I am so glad you asked because one of the most elegant and striking plants for boggy conditions or upland soil is the umbrella palm.

The umbrella palm, known botanically as Cyperus alternifolius, is native to Madagascar. It is related to the well-known papyrus once used to make paper.

Many suggest it is only hardy to zone 9 or along the Coast, but this is simply not the case. It will return from the ground easily in zone 8, and North Carolina State and Norman Winter will confirm it also comes back in zone 7.

The further south it is planted, the larger and more aggressive the plant becomes. Once you are growing the umbrella palm, which develops 5- to 6-foot-tall, reed-like stems, you will get hooked. It gives a palm-like, tropical feel to the landscape.

The umbrella palm will thrive just about anywhere you put it. In full sun or shade, sloppy wet or simply fertile soil, it performs beyond expectations wherever it is planted.

I suppose really tight, heavy soil keeps it from reaching its true potential, but otherwise it is foolproof.

Plant a one-gallon container now and by the end of summer the umbrella palm will look as though you used a 10-gallon specimen. Once the plant has frozen, remove the dead foliage, add a little mulch and wait for a spring return.

Those in the lower one-third of the state may want to do a little thinning from time to time to keep the plant confined to the desired area. The ideal time to divide is in the early spring as new stems emerge from the ground.

The umbrella palm is most suited for water or bog gardens. I am using mine planted at the end of my dry creek bed and combined with a yellow flag-type iris. My favorite planting so far used them

Two sisters in Napoleon

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

In the fall of 1961 the families living in the picturesque little communities along the Pearl River in Western Hancock County couldn't believe their ears when they heard that they would have to leave their homes to make way for a new rocket testing facility being built by NASA.

Close knit families who had lived happily for generations in much the same way, without electricity, running water, motor cars, or television, suddenly found themselves propelled into the space age when the announcement came over the radio.

"We just could hardly believe it or accept it and we thought they must be crazy," said Della Boutwell, who grew up with seven siblings in Napoleon. "Mama and Papa were devastated."

"They were the last ones to leave," said Della's younger sister Ruby Lovechio. "Where we grew up had been Daddy's parents home."

But finally the family realized they had to accept that they would have to do as they were told.

"We had two big fields ready to plant corn," said Della. "And all they gave us was $10,000 for everything, even after Papa went to court to fight it, a little more than what was

MSU honors local student

Nearly 30 current and recently graduated students hold honors for outstanding achievements during their study in Mississippi State University's College of Architecture.

Established in 1973, the college is the only one of its kind in the state. Some 250 majors usually are enrolled in the five-year undergraduate curriculum; four in Starkville and a final year in Jackson to transition from an academic foundation to the profession's daily realities. A two-year master's degree program in architecture/computer visualization also is offered.

Since its beginning, the school has emphasized small towns and continually uses local and state locations as teaching tools an emphasis that sets it apart from traditional urban-based programs. This regional focus has received praise on the local, state and national levels.

Graduates have distinguished themselves in advanced study at schools such as Harvard, Yale and Columbia, as well as in professional careers throughout the United States.

Waveland — Entering freshman Allyson M. Cleaves, who is receiving the $1,000 T. Steven Davis Scholarship. A 2003 graduate of Bay St. Louis High School, she is the daughter of Susan Cleaves of Waveland and E.L. Cleaves of Covington, Tenn.

Steven Davis, an MSU graduate now vice president of the Canizaro Cawthon Davis architectural firm in Jackson, established the scholarship in 2001 to recognize a top minority student enrolling in the architecture program.

On June 10, Jennifer Buchanan from the Bureau of Marine Resources came to the Pass Christian Public Library to present two special programs. In the morning, Buchanan brought several species of crabs and snails for 17 younger children to have a "hands on" experience some of our local marine creatures. In the afternoon, more than 50 children went to the "mini-estuary" on the west side of the Pass Christian Harbor to release the crabs and snails from the morning program. In addition, the children were able to study the marine and plant life in the mini-estuary.

MGCCC places top 100 national

Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College has once again been ranked as one the nation's top 100 community colleges. Gulf Coast earned a ranking of No. 93 in the June 24 issue of Community College Week. The annual list is based on the number of degrees and certifications awarded to students in the 2001-2002 academic year. Gulf Coast is the only Mississippi community college to make this year's top 100 list.

Dr. Willis Lott, MGCCC, says, "Full-time student enrollment has increased 26 percent since fall 2000 at Gulf Coast. The college's showing in this national ranking reflects that growth and our commitment to helping students achieve their educational goals."

Gulf Coast also placed in the top 100 in several fields of study according to this year's list. The college's ranking for number of degrees awarded to education majors was bumped up two spots to No. 6.

The college's biggest jump on this year's list was for the number of associate degree nursing graduates. The college went from No. 32 in 2001 to No. 18 in 2002. This move was made possible by a 20 percent increase in nursing degrees.

Dr. Victor Borden and Pamela C. Brown, authors of "The View from the Top - The Top 100 Associate's Degree Producers," compile the report using data from the U.S. Department of Education. They say, "Students of color, non-traditional age students and students seeking non-traditional means of learning through distance learning courses continue to benefit from the existence of two-year colleges."

Gulf Coast also ranked high (No. 16) for degrees in health science and related fields, along with a No. 32 ranking for number of associate degrees awarded to African-Americans.

Nearly 10,000 students attend four campuses and four centers of Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College in George, Harrison, Jackson and Stone counties.

offered before, but not enough for your life's work."

"We just had a short time and practically had to give our place to the first person who offered and go ahead and move," Della said of her own home.

"One lady, Blue Davis, from Gainesville, wouldn't leave her house and rode out on the front porch in her rocking chair," said Della laughing. "She said she wouldn't leave and she didn't. They had to move her."

"We were all born at home except our youngest brother," said Della. "He was the only one that Mama went to the hospital for ... back then you didn't run to the doctor for every little thing."

Ruby was the baby girl of the family and "everyone called me baby sister," she said.

"But I was my daddy's favorite," said Della. "He used to take me with him. When I was about eight years old he took me floundering."

Both women have found memories of their parents Willie and Pearl Hoyer, and their life in Napoleon, a life that for many would sound like a pretty picture book, full of the closeness of family and friends, and community. Indeed, the kind of life shared by many of the residents in the area.

Candy pulling parties, hay rides, fish fries, and camp outs with pots of gumbo made with fresh caught crabs are all a part of the picture book memories. Della walked around the corner to attend the old Napoleon school. Why she even remembers riding in a surrey with the fringe on top, and her parents horse and wagon that was the family's transportation.

Their mother Pearl was a relative newcomer, arriving in the area a month before she was born, by horse and wagon from points north (Minnesota and New York), Della said. She was born in Nicholson. Willie and Pearl celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in Napoleon. Willie died in 1977 and Pearl in 1995.

The women remember their father as a pleasant man who was always making them laugh. Ruby was the cook of the family and remembers that her father always loved her cooking. Della remembers a joke he made about her small homemade biscuits. "One bite and you have a quarter moon he would say, another bite and you have a total eclipse."

Their mother, they remember as being loved by everyone.

"Once just before she died a man we know told her that if she lived to be 100 he would give her the biggest party she had ever had," said Ruby. "But I said that it would have to be some party because for as far back as I can remember, the house would be full of people on Mama's birthday. You could look out the front door and see people lined up bringing presents."

The family laughed a lot, but they worked a lot too. There were cows to milk and let out in the pasture, then they had to be rounded up in the evening. There was wood to chop for the cook stove and for heating.

"I never saw a gas stove till I was 16," said Ruby.

And every Monday was wash day, which Della doesn't remember as the good old days.

"I didn't like all that scrubbing on the wash boards," she said.

And of course there was the cooking for their large family, the extended family of aunts and uncles and cousins that lived all up and down the road, and various friends who were always at dinner.

"It was family all around," said Ruby. "And on Sunday there were visiting ministers who would come and preach from the seminary ... we had a preacher at our house for dinner every Sunday. I started doing the cooking when I was eleven."

When Ruby married she moved away to New Orleans. Della stayed behind with her first husband Freeland Reynolds, and later when he passed away her second husband, Rev. J. R. Boutwell, who was a pastor at the Turtle Skin Baptist Church for many years. Both men are buried in the cemetery at Napoleon. In between them a place waits for Della and when it is her time she will be buried there, at home once again, surrounded by family and friends.

For now the two sisters spend many of their days working in the family business in Pearlinton, Lovechio's Restaurant. The restaurant is open several days a week but the main business is the stuffed artichokes that the women make themselves and send out across the area to other restaurants and stores. And as is traditional with them, other family members work to help.

"We were a close knit family then, and we are still a close knit family," said Ruby.

Gardening

flanking a homemade bridge over a dry creek.

In more upland locations, use them as understory plantings to tall bananas or in combination with elephant ears.

Those with small water gardens seem to prefer the dwarf form Gracilis. I am growing this one as well.

Though it is more mannered from the standpoint of vigor, I like the typical large selection better. Those variegated plant nuts out there will be happy to discover Variegatus.

The umbrella palm is one of those plants I really can't imagine ever being without. I am perplexed that it is not a staple at all garden centers. I suppose it does have a "pass-along" reputation, meaning it will probably be free once you find a source.

Regardless of how you get yours, I know you will agree that the umbrella palm can transform a garden into a tropical paradise without much effort.

Hancock's Local Newspaper since 1892

Advertising is an investment in the success of your business. Every business has some kind of competition, either within the town, nearby city or from mail order firms. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and buy elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their trading from one store to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your store.

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business growing.

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is news! You profit by telling our readers what is new in your store. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know the product lines you carry, the quality of your merchandise, the completeness of your service and the character of your store.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is designed to build your business and works best when it is repeated regularly. Consistent advertising pays off!

Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading, it is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.

If you're looking for the best advertising value for your money, then you should contact the advertising department at The Sea Coast Echo. One of our advertising representatives will be happy to discuss the many advertising options offered by The Sea Coast Echo. For more information you may call 467-5474, Monday through Friday 8am to 5pm, or stop by our office at 124 Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

Since 1892, The Sea Coast Echo is proud to be a part of your community.

Facts About The BIBLE

IN THE KING'S NAME

THE ANCIENT KINGS, AS SUCH, WERE VARIED. NEBUCHADNEZZAR OF BABYLON AND ARTAXERXES THE PERSIAN WERE EACH "KINGS OVER KINGS" (EZRA 7:12; DAN 2:37; II KINGS 24:17). HOWEVER, THE USUAL MONARCH OFFERED RULED ONLY ONE CITY. SOME OF THEM BEING LESS THAN THE SIZE OF A SMALL VILLAGE BY TODAY'S STANDARDS. A MAN BECAME KING OF A NATION OR CITY EITHER BY APPOINTMENT, BY ONE WHO WAS HIGHER IN AUTHORITY (I SAM. 9:16, 16:1, 19; II KINGS 23:30), OR BY THE POPULAR DEMAND OF THE PEOPLE (I SAM. 18:8; II SAM. 5:1-3; I KINGS 12:20; II KINGS 23:30) OR BY USURPING A THRONE, OR BY INHERITANCE. THE RESTRAINTS UPON A KING WERE THE FEAR OF GOD AND MAN. THE POPULAR WILL COULD NOT BE IGNORED! HOWEVER, THE KINGS DID LEAD A SHELTERED AND LUXURIOUS LIFE. IN VIEW OF THE ROYAL DUTIES REQUIRED OF THEM, BOTH PHYSICAL AND MENTAL, THE MORAL REQUIREMENTS DEMANDED A HIGH MEASURE OF INTEGRITY TO RULE WELL. MANY OF THE ATTRIBUTES AND ACCOMPISHMENTS ATTRIBUTED TO NUMEROUS RULERS WERE REALLY CARRIED OUT BY A DESIGNATED SURROGATE, WHO DID THE ACTUAL STORMING OF THE BATTLEMENT WALL, OR CHARGED FEARLESSLY INTO AN ENEMY'S CAMP. "CALL IN THE KING'S NAME!" WHILE A KING REMAINED IN THE LUXURIOUS TRappings OF HIS PALACE... HIS APPOINTED SURROGATE, MANY MILES AWAY, MIGHT BE WEARILY APPROACHING A BATTLE WHERE HE IS DESTINED TO BRING... HONOR TO THE KING'S NAME!

Summertime and the Living is Easy

"Six Die in Riptides in Florida Waters" were the jolting headlines on June 10.

Stormy weather conditions had kept eager swimmers out of the water for a couple of days until a beautiful day dawned. Wild horses could not have held the swimmers back, let alone red flags indicating dangerous conditions.

Last I heard, red means "Stop!" not "Go!" But that was all lost on the swimmers piling into the blue-green waters off the Destin beaches. "You shall love your neighbor as yourself," (Matthew 19:19) cannot possibly have any correlation with walking past a red flag into churning waters.

It was heartening to see that the newspaper had detailed diagrams of the makings of a riptide, as well as the steps to be taken in order to survive the clutches of what we sometimes call the undertow. In short, a riptide is the counterflow back into the sea of water which had rushed in as a powerful surf, pushing far up onto the beach. It simply follows the law of gravity.

This poses a problem to swimmers because the out-rushing water runs under the intruding water, forming what we call an undertow. The biggest, the most powerful swimmer in the world is helpless against the undertow, or riptide. Do not fight it. Swim parallel to the beach until the current weakens. Then you can easily swim back to shore. Summer, the alluring, tropical time of the year, excites us with its new plant growth, flowers, fruit, swimming, boating, baseball, picnics and all outdoors. What we must do, if we love ourselves, is remain ever alert. For instance, do you ever think of a drop-off when you are wading?

When I was a child, we always referred to a drop-off as a step-off.

Ashley Kelly, a 5-foot-tall, 12-year-old girl suddenly disappeared as she was wading in Lake Pontchartrain on June 1. She drowned before her cousin or sister could help her. The culprit: a drop-off measuring about 25 feet across and 15 feet deep. You make the call about not using the buddy system in the water, and about cities failing to explore and mark danger spots.

Love your neighbor, love yourself. So where was their self-love in that late-teen, early-twenties, mostly drunk group of 40 recently who left their party to board a luxury Gulfstream motor yacht at 1 a.m.? Piled up on one side of the craft, it capsized, of course. With only 15 life jackets, God only knows how or why no one drowned.

Summertime, and the living is easy, pleasant and potentially dangerous. Some people complain about summer heat and humidity, but it's all music to my ears. It reminds me wonderfully of childhood: no school, no shoes except for Sunday Mass, climbing huge, wild pecan trees and roosting up there for hours with our slingshots, swimming, boating, fishing, baseball.

On the other side of the coin, I remember with a strange pain a handful of childhood playmates and friends who did not survive the summer because of drowning. Descriptions of drownings always struck us with a peculiar twinge of pain and poignancy, as we imagined ourselves in that situation.

As I have often observed, it is amazing that most little boys actually get to grow to adulthood. I am a firsthand witness that guardian angels have to work overtime to keep safe, at least alive, all the pint-size macho wannabees who constantly explore and lay siege to home, school and the whole world.

However, it is far more than impish little boys who attack life with verve and heedless abandon. Supposedly mature adults, apparently a distinct majority of them, rush into summertime situations where they are often over and around water without life jackets, at least not enough for everyone.

How many adults delude themselves into believing that drinking while driving a boat is somehow not nearly so dangerous as highway driving? It can in fact be more dangerous because the perception of non-danger allows us to ease unaware into dire straits and even life-threatening situations. The world of cold statistics, unfortunately, bears us out in this.

Naturally, love your neighbor, love yourself extends to our attitude toward brother sun, whom God put there, not to give us cataracts and cancer, but to give light, warmth and joy. So, out with your shades to preclude cataracts, and on with a sun-defensive hat and a sun screen for your skin.

And, oh yes, sunstroke strikes so suddenly when people do not imbibe sufficient amounts of water and other fluids. It is no less than a race that we run to stay ahead of dehydration and overheating. With the tropical wonder of heat come many such little privileges and obligations of our self-love.

Now before you complain about the heat and humidity, just remember that hardly any of us get sick during this heat. This clearly indicates that our bodies are at their strongest in the good old summertime. Long before the cold of winter, health scientists will be warning us about colds, flu, etc.

Yes, summertime, and the living is easy, praise God! The reasons why we should offer thanks innumerable outweigh the wimpy complaints we may have. It is indeed fulfilling for you to love your neighbor and love yourself.

The "Word" for the Week
Jesus Christ, Lord of Nations

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

When I was a kid, I remember going to a friend's house to enjoy some fireworks. It was a real blast, in more ways than one. I knew what July fourth was all about.

It commemorated the signing of the Declaration of Independence. But I gave it little thought. I gave even less thought to God who actually brought this country into being. Yes, God. You know who He is. Not everyone acknowledges Him. But you know who He is. He is the creator of the universe and everything in it.

"The heavens are declaring the glory of God, and their expanse is declaring the work of His hands" (Psalm 19: 1).

So, God is revealing Himself to you through His creations. As a result, you know Him, even if you reject Him. Listen to this: "For since the creation of the world, His invisible attributes, His eternal power and divine nature, have been clearly seen, being understood through what has been made" (Romans 1:20).

You see, God's eternal power and divine nature are being revealed to you through every rock and hill, every mountain and stream, every star and planet, and in all the expanse of outer space and inner space.

It is this same God who rules and overrules in our world. It is this same God who brought the United States of America into being. "It is He who changes times and epochs; He removes kings and establishes kings" (Daniel 2:21). So when the Fourth of July rolls around, it is not only time for fireworks. It is time to give thanks to God for bringing this country into being. It is time to thank God for giving us a place in it.

Scripture Says . . .

By Ed Young

Jesus ask the question "whom do men say that I am?" The disciples answered saying "some say that you are John Baptist, some Elijah, and others say Jeremiah or one of the prophets. Jesus said to the disciples, 'who do you say that I am?'

His question has been asked down through the centuries to all of us.

Many say He is the Son of God in a nonchalant way. Others express Jesus as just a historical figure, than of course many thank of Him at Christmas time only; still in the manger.

Peter was given Heavenly insight on who Jesus is. Here's Peter's answer, "thou art the Christ the Son of the living God. Matt. 16:16

The Heavenly impute is what is needed to understand spiritual things. Unless on is born again, born from above, born anew spiritual awaken, Jesus is just a religious personality.

However, the Holy Spirit came into the world to convict men of their sins and urge them to surrender their lives over to 'This Christ.' This Christ is the one who said for their sins at Calvary, 2000 years ago. That agony on the cross should mean something to all of us. Does it?

This Jesus Christ has made some very profound statements. He has said "He that has the Son has life; He that has not the Son of God has not life." I John 5:12 "Except a man be born again, he cannot enter the kingdom of God." John 3:3 Another very strong spiritual truth is "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased," God almighty proclaimed. Matt. 3:17

Whom do you say He is? He says to us "Behold I stand at the door, and knock, is any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come into Him." Rev. 3:20

Our reply should be "come unto our hearts and save us; Give us eternal life, Jesus."

Second Saturday Artwalk is July 12th

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The downtown Bay St. Louis merchants invite you to join them for another Second Saturday Artwalk of 2003. From 5 p.m. to 8 p.m., there will be live music, artists' receptions at the galleries, refreshments and late evening shopping. Come early, eat at one of the Bay's excellent restaurants, pick up a map of Old Town and plan your evening of visiting galleries and shopping in interesting stores.

"HOT SPOTS"

BAY CRAFTS, 107 N. BEACH BLVD: Will feature jewelry by Kelly Colleen. Kelly is a native of New Orleans. All of her designs focus on a balance of color, shape and texture. Constantly evolving, her line ranges from glass beads and crystals to semi-precious stones, to vintage components from the 1920's. Join us in debuting Kelly's "Colors" line of beautifully faceted siworski crystals on waxed linen and sterling silver.

THE LOFT, 144 MAIN ST.: 30 different artists hanging or exhibiting fine crafts - metal sculpture, pottery, stained glass, lithographs, serigraphs, photography, acrylics, oils, prints and watercolor. Open house - many artist on hand. Free matted 8X10 prints from frame shop while supplies last. Hors d'oeuvres will be served.

CLAY CREATIONS, 215 MAIN ST: Artist Jenise McCardell and Clay Creations studio will be celebrating their 7th anniversary in Bay St. Louis on July 12th. Festivities marking this memorable occasion will start at 4:00 PM. Jenise and her staff will be on hand to give studio tours and show you how a "Clay Creation" is born. Clay Creations are sculpted replicas of historic buildings and homes in South Louisiana and the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Starting at 6:00 PM there will be live music, food and drinks. Jenise "majored in mud" at the University of Florida. After graduation she wandered around the south creating beautiful architectural pieces, however she knew she had found home when she visited the charming town of Bay St. Louis. Here, Jenise has expanded her line and gone into the wholesale end of the craft business, but her true loves have not changed - creating new pieces, talking to her retail customers and showing her goods at craft fairs and festivals.

Peoples Bank will sponsor the music of "Silver City" on Beach Blvd.

Coast Chorale seeks new members for second decade

The Coast Chorale, one of our state's premier singing ensembles, will embark upon its second decade this autumn. The Coast Chorale, which consistently performs throughout the Mississippi Gulf Coast and south Mississippi has also been heard nationally and internationally. Most recently many of its members performed the music of British composer John Rutter, under his direction in Carnegie Hall. The Chorale has also performed and was well received in Austria and Italy. New members in all singing voices are being sought for the new season that begins with the first full rehearsal on Tuesday September 9th. You don't have to be an operatic diva or one of the "three tenors." Informal voice screenings will be held between 6:00 and 6:45 on Tuesday the 9th of September. The purpose is to determine your singing voice for proper placement in the Chorale. Full rehearsal will follow at 7:00 PM with subsequent rehearsals held on following Tuesdays at that same time. All rehearsals as well as the voice screenings, available before most rehearsals early in the season, are held at Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian. If you need more information feel free to contact Joy Mehrtens, artistic director at 463-9245 or Eric Meindl, president at 228 466 9529.

Checking in with Kevin Zegers

By John Crook
 © Zap2it

Kevin Zegers says he wasn't kidding himself when he agreed to co-star with Gena Rowlands in the Showtime movie "The Incredible Mrs. Ritchie," which premieres Saturday, July 12.

"To be perfectly honest, when you work with someone like her, you just try very hard not to make an ass of yourself," he says drily. "You have to trust that you've prepared yourself and worked hard enough on the material, because it's impossible to stand beside Gena Rowlands and outshine her."

The TV movie casts the handsome young actor as a seriously troubled teenager whose life is transformed by an eccentric widow (Rowlands). Zegers says he knows, firsthand, how important it is to reach out to others.

"I worked on a TV pilot with Melissa Gilbert ... about five years ago and she just completely has taken me under her wing," he says. "I still go over to her home and just hang out with her family."

"I think she understands that I grew up in a small town and family life is important to me, and sometimes it's hard being alone in a place like Los Angeles. It helps to know I have a place where I can get a home-cooked meal and hang out in a family atmosphere."

Although he only is 18, Zegers has been working since he was 6, when he began appearing in commercials. He built a solid fan base in the Disney "Air Bud" movies and currently is starring as a descendant of Ichabod Crane in "The Hollow," a modern retelling of "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow."

Zegers plans to go to college, marry and start a family, "but probably back in Canada. I just don't think this industry has a very healthy family atmosphere."

Born: Sept. 19, 1984, in St. Mary's, Ont.

Film/TV movie credits: "Life With Mikey," "In the Mouth of Madness," "Air Bud" and its three sequels, "Treasure Island," "Virginia's Run," "Fear of the Dark," "Wrong Turn."

TV series: "Free Willy," "Traders," "Titans."

TV guest appearances: "The X-Files," "Road to Avonlea," "Goosebumps," "Twice in a Lifetime," "So Weird."

Coming up: Currently filming "The Hollow" with Stacy Keach, Kaley Cuoco, Judge Reinhold, Nicholas Turturro and Nick Carter.

Fan mail: Kevin Zegers, c/o Evolution Entertainment, 7720 Evolution Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90046.

Lisa Ling chooses a different view on MSNBC

By Lori Lundquist
 © Zap2it

You may think that Lisa Ling cut her television teeth under the tutelage of Barbara Walters on ABC's woman-centric talk-test "The View."

But for years prior to her stint as the show's whip-smart "twentysomething" spokesperson, Ling traveled the world as an international correspondent for Channel One News, a satellite newscast that reaches 8.5 million high-school students nationwide.

Now the admittedly happy wanderer can be seen Sundays on MSNBC in "National Geographic Ultimate Explorer," a gutsy, intimate series that turns news events into personal journeys. In fact, we spoke to Ling just before she caught a flight to Iraq to experience postwar life for its citizens, more than half of whom are younger than she is.

You are going global again!
 Yeah! I actually begged my agent to get me an interview with the folks at National Geographic (Channel) - I sought them out. They're really the only organization that I know of that seeks to do international stories. It's a mandate to cover the world. You don't find that in other places unless there's a war going on.

Still a little tough to leave "The View"?
 They were so supportive. Barbara Walters said it when I first started: "Listen, Lisa, I can tell that you are going to want to get back to reporting some time, and if you find that perfect job, come to me and I will help you."

What's good so far about "Explorer"?
 I get to do so many incredibly cool international assignments - ones that I've wanted to do for a long time. But I've got to tell you - they've also put together such a remarkable team of young correspondents (Ling, Fulbright scholar Mireya Mayor and naturalist Nick Baker). It sounds cliché, but I have so much respect for these people.

Simon Cowell plays 'Cupid' for a woman looking for love

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

As he prepares to draw back his bow again, Cupid looks remarkably like Simon Cowell.

The famously candid (i.e. "snarky") "American Idol" judge is in the driver's seat as an executive producer of the unscripted CBS series "Cupid," premiering Wednesday, July 9. This time, instead of helping to steer aspiring singers toward possible recording contracts, Cowell sets the stage for a young woman to find the man of her dreams — and get a $1 million dowry to boot.

Ex-MTV veejay Brian McFadden hosts, and Michigan ad copywriter Lisa Shannon is the person who hopes to get lucky in love via the TV equivalent of speed dating. The would-be suitors she auditions in Chicago, New York, Miami and Los Angeles get just 30 seconds to make their marks, and Lisa isn't the only one passing judgment: Her two best friends, Kimberly Tarter and Laura Restum, also weigh in.

Once the field is narrowed to 10 finalists, all of America can vote for their favorite candidate. Each week, in reality-show tradition, the man who has the least votes will be eliminated.

"It was always a dream of mine to make something work in America," says British-born music executive Cowell, who remains based in his native London. "I really started thinking about it once we had success with 'American Idol,' because doors opened to me that hadn't been open two years ago."

"Cupid" stems from people's suggestions to Cowell about using the "American Idol" formula in other ways. He recalls, "They asked why we didn't do 'Acting Idol' or 'Comedy Idol,' and I'd say, 'Those wouldn't have the humiliation aspect.' That's a big part of 'American Idol.'"

"I thought there was nothing more embarrassing than singing badly in public," Cowell continues, "then I realized there was one thing: being humiliated by women when you're trying to chat one up and her friends just kill you. I said, 'You know what? That's a show.' That was reinforced when I saw some of the other dating shows in America ('The Bachelor,' 'Joe Millionaire,' etc.). In my opinion, they were turning into daytime dramas, a bit soft and quite predictable. I didn't think they were true to life."

In Cowell's mind, such truth gives a couple a real shot at staying together, which is why Lisa will receive the million-dollar "Cupid" dowry only if she remains paired for at least one year. "There's no point offering a million dollars to anyone if she only has to stay with someone for two months," Cowell reasons. "Besides, I feel this poses an interesting moral question for the woman."

"The public is selecting her partner, and if she ends up not liking the guy — and he proposes to her — she's in a horrible dilemma. If she takes the money, America hates her. If she doesn't take the money, she loses out on a million bucks. I like the fact that everything will be out in the open here, unlike some other shows (such as NBC's 'For Love or Money,' in which the man doesn't know the woman he selects will win $1 million). Everyone here will know where they stand."

Cowell maintains Lisa was an obvious choice to be the woman "Cupid" aims to assist. "When you cast any show like this," he explains, "about 90 percent of the candidates are doing it for reasons other than the show. Many just want a television career, but I wanted to find someone who was genuine. I became convinced Lisa was from the time I spent with her before we started taping the first episodes. Having spent more time with her since, I know she's genuine."

Because of the setup of "Cupid," Cowell also needed to find two of Lisa's friends he believed viewers would want to watch. He reflects, "The minute Laura walked in the room, I felt, 'This is going to work.' She's divorced, and she's cute. The other friend isn't as cute, so there's an interesting dynamic going on there. In other words, it's the sort of thing that happens in any bar across America or England any night of the week: A very attractive woman goes out with friends who don't get on that well with one another, but they act as the pretty girl's guardians."

By popular demand, the new Tahoe poem

By Taylor Michaels

Q Would you please print the new poem being used in the Chevy Tahoe commercials? -Dora Harste, Brookings, S.D.

A I don't want this column to turn into Jingle Junction, but since so, so many of you have asked, here is Patrick O'Leary's "Far Off the Track," as recited by James Garner:

If you're heading out there
I'll give you a tip.
It's wild and it's far
And you're in for a trip.
For just when you think
It couldn't get rougher
The path goes crooked and the going gets tougher.
But once you've traveled
This far off the track
You won't settle for less
And there's no going back.

Q I'm very impressed with Teri Polo, who played Ben Stiller's bride-to-be in "Meet the Parents." Does she have anything new in the works? -Mike Danelek, Lakewood, Colo.

A Polo recently wrapped "Beyond Borders," a romantic movie drama in which she co-stars with Angelina Jolie, Linus Roache and Clive Owen.

Next fall, you'll find her in a promising new ABC sitcom called "I'm With Her." Loosely based on the real-life romance and marriage of Brooke Shields and Chris Henchy, the new Tuesday-night entry stars David Sutcliffe (Rory's dad on "Gilmore Girls") as Patrick, a high-school teacher who falls in love with a winsome movie star (Polo) but is unprepared for the ensuing media attention.

Q What ever happened to Lisa Gerritsen, the child actress who played Bess Lindstrom on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "Phyllis," and also was on the wonderful "My World and Welcome to It" with William Windom? -Susan Allen, Ukiah, Calif.

A One of the most charming and unaffected child actresses ever to appear on television, Gerritsen apparently decided not to pursue acting as an adult, because "Phyllis," which ended in 1977, is her last major professional credit. Now 45, she last was reported to be working as an independent software consultant in California.

Summer comes alive on USA Network's 'The Dead Zone'

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

"It's the sexy summer six, as we're calling them," says Lloyd Segal, an executive producer of USA Network's "The Dead Zone." "We call it Season 2 1/2, or Season 2.5 for those wisecrackers."

After finishing its second-season run of 13 episodes in April, "The Dead Zone" — based on characters created by Stephen King in his novel of the same name — rushed back into production in May.

It returns on Sunday, July 6, with an abbreviated summer run that includes six new hours and one unaired episode from the second season. Season 3 has yet to be greenlighted, and even if it was, it likely wouldn't premiere until next March.

"It was done at the behest of our colleagues who felt that they didn't want to have such a long time between cycles," Segal says. "We're running 100 miles an hour to knock these shows out for our colleagues at USA."

"The Dead Zone" stars Anthony Michael Hall as Johnny Smith, a rural Maine schoolteacher who wound up in a six-year coma after a car accident. When he awakens, not only is his beloved, Sarah (Nicole deBoer), married to county sheriff Walt Bannerman (Chris Bruno) — and they are raising Johnny and Sarah's son as their own — Johnny has acquired psychic powers. With just a touch, he can see the past, present and future.

family friend who controls the considerable estate left Johnny by his mother.

In a recent missive to fans at the show's official Web site, Piller says of the six new episodes, "Our goal is to create a 'summer of fun' — a group of big, summer-blockbuster, popcorn-munching episodes designed to put Johnny into some of the most amazing adventures he has yet encountered. (I'm about to put pen to paper to write a show about Johnny versus a tornado that seems to have a mind of its own.)"

"The very first episode is called 'The Storm,'" Segal says, "and it's really Johnny and the whale, if you will, as opposed to Jonah and the whale. It's about a tornado that seemingly is following Johnny, and is potentially sending a message to Johnny."

"If you believe that, that's just one interpretation. Of course, the other is that it's just science, and it's a random act. But the fact is that we meet Johnny questioning his mission, which is what he has to do with his abilities."

"It's an important episode, but it's exciting because it's big. A storm like this hit — is it a coincidence or not? — when Johnny had his accident. So, stay tuned."

After coming out of the gate with gang-buster numbers in its first season in the summer of 2002, "The Dead Zone" faced much stiffer competition when its second season launched last January. According to Segal, these six episodes give audiences a chance to reconnect with the show, while amping up the action and adventure.

"We're taking advantage of what people think about for the summer," he says, "sort of tentpole, fastball episodes."

Joining the six newly produced episodes is "The Hunt," which was written and shot for Season 2. It originally centered on the idea of U.S. intelligence agencies using psychics — in this case, Johnny Smith — to track down terrorists including Osama bin Laden, references to whom have been removed.

For the curious, Michael Taylor's teleplay can be downloaded from the show's Web site, located at www.usanetwork.com/thedeadzone.

"The network was very open to us doing 'The Hunt,'" Segal says, "but, in fact, had concerns prior to filming it, but was deferential to us as producers, saying, 'Look, we think it's a terrific project, you guys think it's a terrific project, but just know that this war (with Iraq) is in the offing, and we're a little squeamish about it. If timing is wrong, we may have to evaluate whether we're going to air it or not.'"

"Sure enough, that's exactly what happened."

Another hurdle arose in late March, when Chubb Insurance of Canada filed a suit against Hall, claiming that production of the show in the spring of 2001 was disrupted by his brief hospitalization for "bipolar affective disorder depression with psychotic features," a condition that Chubb claims Hall did not list on insurance forms.

Chubb is attempting to recover claim funds paid out to production company Lion's Gate Film Corp. for the delay.

While neither Hall nor Segal can comment on the suit directly, Segal does say about his star, "Michael shows up for work without a hitch. He's the most professional person we have in the group. He's a true partner. He's a co-producer of the show, and he truly acts as a producer of the show. That's the Michael I would talk about, because that's the truth. The rest, I think, is silly."

"I can only talk about the facts, and the fact is, this guy is doing an unbelievable job every day. Every producer should have an actor like him in their midst for a television series. It's a dream."

In the meantime, Segal has a hint about other summer developments, "It's a new dynamic ... that's going to develop around Johnny Jr. and Walt and Johnny and Sarah. What is it that they can do together, as a family, to help raise this child? Because ultimately, are we going to reveal the biological father to little Johnny?"

"I can't tell you. I'd have to be killed. But I'm certainly leading you down the garden path of possibilities."

Music stars honor auto racing icon Dale Earnhardt

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Country music and auto racing go together like Dale Earnhardt and the number 3.

The late NASCAR superstar was saluted in an all-day festival organized by his widow, Teresa, on June 28 at Daytona International Speedway in Florida. Profits will be distributed to charitable causes through the Dale Earnhardt Foundation, and some of that money is coming from Fox, which paid for the rights to televise the show as the two-hour "Dale Earnhardt Tribute Concert" Thursday, July 10.

Country music is represented by Brooks & Dunn, Kenny Chesney and Alabama. Also performing are Sheryl Crow, the Goo Goo Dolls, Delbert McCClinton and Hootie & the Blowfish. Dale Earnhardt Jr. and fellow NASCAR Winston Cup driver (and Earnhardt disciple) Michael Waltrip recall "The Intimidator" at the track where he scored 34 of his 76 career victories, then died in a 2001 accident during his 23rd Daytona 500.

Kix Brooks, of Brooks & Dunn fame, was close to Earnhardt. "Though it's kind of a miracle, it doesn't really surprise me that Teresa pulled this off," he says. "She's done a lot of wonderful things to make sure the memory of Dale stays intact in a way that involves a lot of integrity. She's very hands-on, and she came up with the concert because Dale loved music. He really cherished his relationships with a lot of artists. I'd talk with him a couple of times a week. He was a guy I'd just call in the morning and say, 'What's goin' on?' He was always on the track or under a car."

Knowing Teresa Earnhardt was a novice to concert-booking, Brooks and musical partner Ronnie Dunn agreed to help her recruit other stars. "Doing a show at Daytona is just a nightmare, logistically," Brooks maintains. "You can't do it during a race because there's just so much stuff in the infield. Just to set up the stage and deal with this caliber of acts, she was biting off a big one. I told her that, and she got kind of quiet and said, 'Do you not want to do this?' I said, 'Look, Ronnie and I are in. I'm just letting you know you're in for a major headache, so put your seat belt on.' Halfway through, though, it was obvious she had done her homework and caught up fast."

Brooks got to know Dale Earnhardt in the early-to-mid-1990s, when he and Dunn "went to Richard Petty's racing school in Charlotte (N.C.) and met Hank Jones, who did merchandising for Dale. He introduced us, and we just hit it off right away and wound up doing different things together. He came out to Vegas and did a video with us ('Honky Tonk Truth,' in which look-alikes Earnhardt and Brooks continually trade places), and he and Teresa invited me to their boat in the Bahamas and we did some fishing down there. We just had a lot of really good times together."

As they continue to tour with the third edition of their Neon Circus & Wild West Show, Brooks & Dunn have an opportunity to expose songs from their latest album, "Red Dirt Road" (slated for release on July 15), in the Earnhardt tribute concert. "Stock-car racing started out being based on a whole country lifestyle," Brooks reasons, "the environment as well as the people. The people who watch NASCAR listen to rock-and-roll, too, but they listen to country music in a big way. It's all grown and it's all become mainstream, so it's just a natural tie-in."

NASCAR superstar Dale Earnhardt, who died in a 2001 accident during the Daytona 500, is saluted by many music stars in the two-hour special "Dale Earnhardt Tribute Concert," taped June 28 at Florida's Daytona International Speedway and airing Thursday on Fox.

Fox Sports Net's 'Beyond the Glory' gets the summer spotlight

By George Dickie
 © Zap2it

In Fox Sports Net's world of youth-oriented programming and whirling graphics, there is fare more suited to adults.

It's called "Beyond the Glory," and for two-plus seasons, the hourlong Sunday-night documentary series has endeavored to tell the previously untold stories of athletes away from the field of play, or, as the title implies, "Beyond the Glory."

This summer, "BTG" is getting a higher profile, trotting out new stories that range from Olympian Greg Louganis (Sunday, July 6) and football's Curtis Martin (July 13) to baseball great Cal Ripken Jr. (July 20) and extreme sports legend Tony Hawk (July 27). There is also a special two-hour midweek program on former heavyweight champ Mike Tyson that airs July 16. The new programs, 12 in all, will continue through August.

The idea behind giving "Glory" the summer spotlight, says George Greenberg, FSN executive vice president of programming and production, is to "try to elevate, from a viewer's perspective, the urgency with which to watch Fox Sports Net, and, in general, smarten up the programming schedule. So 'Beyond the Glory' won't feel like a disconnect with any schedule that we plan to put on at all. In fact, it'll integrate really well with the rest of our shows. Hopefully, we can bring a lot of them up to the level of 'Beyond the Glory,' as far as the production capacity goes - and editorial capacity also."

One might not think younger viewers would embrace such heady programming as a documentary series, but Greenberg and FSN are betting otherwise. "I think good stories will sell to any crowd, and it doesn't matter," Greenberg says. "As long as you tell a viewer a story, whether he's 8 or 88, you can get them hooked on your material, you'll get them to watch."

"Do they have shorter attention spans? Yes. But if you look at the type of programming that MTV is putting on right now, their programming tends to lay out more. It isn't always a rapid-fire, staccato cut, and I don't care if it's 'Real World' or 'Surf Girls,' which is a brand-new series on MTV, it's a story. And they have these people hooked. ... If you're telling a good story, they're going to come back week after week."

One story executive producers Frank Sinton and Steven Michaels are particularly excited about is the profile of Tyson. It took three years to book and was a filmmaking experience they both call "unbelievable."

Explains Michaels, "There's no question that he has multiple personalities. I think we saw, pretty much, all of his personalities ... the only one we did not get to, thankfully, is the one that happened to be in the ring with (Evander) Holyfield that night where he bit his ear off."

"We had him crying, we had him laughing, we had him through all kinds of emotions. I mean, he contradicts himself, as you know. He's like a little kid sometimes, but other times, you're like, 'Wow!' This is going to sound crazy, but he actually sounds profound. He makes these profound statements and it's like, 'Huh?' He seems very educated, but at other times he sounds like the stupidest guy in America."

At the end of filming, Michaels recalls that the ex-champ "thanked us and said, 'Wow, this is a lot different than a lot of the other people.' Usually, he wants to choke the person sitting across from him. But we did our homework and we got it right, and we let him tell his side of the story, as crazy as it is sometimes."

Another noteworthy installment is on Louganis, the U.S. gold-medal diver who suffered through depression, abusive relationships and an HIV-positive diagnosis. "It's quite an emotional story," Sinton says. "and he's also very forthcoming, very honest. This is a very painful life that he's gone through ... and also he's now in a very good place and he's dealt with a lot of these things, which allows him to speak very freely and openly about these issues. It's quite an impactful show."

Sinton feels a distinguishing feature of "Beyond the Glory" is that it "tells the stories from the athlete's point of view. We've all seen stories where reporters and experts will tell you about people's lives. But it's important for us to get it from the people who lived it and the people close to them."

"Wimbledon, Men's Final" Sunday, July 6 (NBC, 9 a.m. ET): Where have you gone, Pete Sampras? Let's hope today's Wimbledon men's singles final is more watchable than the French Open championship last month, when Juan Carlos Ferrero beat Martin Verkerk (who?) in that tournament's most lopsided title match in 25 years. It's a good bet those two clay-courtiers won't be going for their second straight Grand Slam. Wimbledon's grass courts demand a more all-around game, such as that of defending champ Lleyton Hewitt.

"St. Louis Cardinals at San Francisco Giants" Tuesday, July 8 (ESPN, 3:30 p.m. ET): The All-Star Game is right around the corner, and Ray Durham was among those on the San Francisco Giants who had the chance to be elected. Whether he's been leading off or hitting in front of Barry Bonds, Durham has done the job with a team-leading batting average and occasional burst of power. After four games in St. Louis last week, Durham and the Giants are at home today to conclude a short two-game set against the Cardinals.

"Vernon Forrest vs. Ricardo Mayorga, Welterweights" Saturday, July 12 (HBO, 10:30 p.m. ET): It's possible Vernon Forrest underrated Ricardo Mayorga before their first fight. Or maybe Mayorga is the better fighter, which no one thought to be true prior to his knockout of Forrest last January to claim the world welterweight title. The truth is probably somewhere in between, and it's revealed tonight during the rematch from Las Vegas. The evening begins with Zab Judah taking on DeMarcus Corley in a junior welterweight bout.

Movie: Popeye

Robin Williams made his big-screen debut as the star of this live-action adaptation of the comic strip. On a search for his long-lost "pappy," the spinach-scarfing sailor finds romance with the sweet, skinny Olive Oyl (Shelley Duvall); and has his own paternal instincts awakened by a cute little orphan. Ray Walston and Paul Dooley also star in the 1980 comedy, which was directed by Robert Altman ("M*A*S*H").

National Geographic

Celebrated undersea explorer Robert Ballard undertakes another mission beneath the waves with "The Quest for Noah's Flood." He heads an expedition that ventures to the Black Sea to look for artifacts left from 5600 B.C., the era when Noah, according to the Bible, set sail for 40 days and nights. Evidence suggests people resided in the region at that time.

Thursday

Movie: That Thing You Do!

Tom Hanks made his screenwriting debut with this charming 1996 comedy-drama about a rising young rock band in 1964. He also directs and plays a key character: the record producer who gives the band its big break. Tom Everett Scott, Johnathon Schaech, Liv Tyler and Rita Wilson also star. The film's title song, which is also the band's big hit, earned an Oscar nomination.

Friday

5 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Final Fantasy: The Spirits Within

Completely computer-generated, this 2001 science-fiction saga, set in the mid-21st century, finds a scientist (voice of Ming-Na, "ER") trying to stave off an alien invasion. She has a more-than-altruistic reason for that: She's been infected by the enemy. Alec Baldwin, Ving Rhames and James Woods also are heard in the film, which has been mentioned often for its lifelike characters.

Saturday

9:30 a.m. on USA

Movie: Junior

Ivan Reitman, who directed Arnold Schwarzenegger and Danny DeVito in 1988's "Twins," brings them together for another movie about miracles of modern maternal medicine. This time, they play Drs. Hesse and Arbogast, scientists working on an anti-miscarriage drug. When their funding is yanked, they press on, with Hesse as the guinea pig. A borrowed ovum, a little ingenuity, and before you can say, "Mr. Mom," he's pregnant. Emma Thompson co-stars.

12:15 p.m. on TBS

Movie: The Great Outdoors

John Candy stars in this 1988 comedy as a regular Joe — make that Chet — who takes his family to the woods for a much-needed vacation. It's shaping up as the perfect getaway, until the arrival of Chet's brother-in-law (Dan Aykroyd) — an obnoxious yuppie with an equally annoying family. Stephanie Faracy and Annette Bening also star, along with a large, vicious bear desperately in need of a Hair Club membership.

Erica warned Mary not to tell Jack or Greenlee the truth about him being Greenlee's father, threatening Mary with the unflattering information that Tad uncovered. The plot to expose Michael's crimes was successful, and he was arrested. Coming: Michael finds a new victim.

Gordo was fired and put under surveillance after he appeared to menace Alison. Stenbeck's clue led Holden to the well, where he rescued Lily. Margo prevented Brackett from killing Dusty, but he later escaped from jail and grabbed Rose, who had gotten out of the well. Bonnie was taken aback when Sarah collapsed. Coming: Life and death for Dusty and Rose.

Bold and Beautiful

Massimo revealed to Nick that the man who raised Nick blackmailed Massimo to keep him away from Jackie, and that Nick is Massimo's son and has the right to wear the Marone ring. Jackie came out of her coma and was thrilled that she, Massimo and Nick will be a family again. Ridge dismissed Brooke's interest in Nick, and they bickered until Massimo interrupted, convinced they would start to get along. Deacon's arrival broke up Hope's first birthday party. Despite Brooke's insistence that Deacon isn't up to being a good father, he intends to be part of his children's lives. Coming: Ridge and Nick remain enemies.

After a few drinks, Lucas was vulnerable to Cassie's advances, and they headed for a hotel to have sex. When Rex uncovered the fact that Kate is his and Cassie's biological mother, he and Mimi rushed to stop the possible intimacy between siblings, but found Cassie and Lucas in a passionate embrace. John stowed away on Tony's yacht, which was headed to South America. Maya ordered Sal to stop Tony, and had a fruit basket containing a bomb delivered to the ship. Brady offered Nicole a job as manager of the Blue Note and Victor allowed her to accept it. Coming: Bo and Hope track down their stolen SUV.

Emily realized that she needs to tell Zander the truth, but was crushed to find him kissing Gia. Carly was devastated to see Sonny kissing Faith at the holiday celebration. Ric unnerved Carly by admitting that he'd rather have her and Sonny's baby than one of his own with Elizabeth. Coming: Skye gets ammunition against Alexis.

Ben accepted Lizzie's invitation to crash the prom. Jeffrey and Gus found evidence that tied Ben to a missing high school girl, and the crime was the last of the dead coroner's cases. Coming: Ben becomes increasingly dangerous.

Bases are loaded for 'Days' celebrities

By Candace Havens
© Zap2it

"Days of Our Lives" cast members have teamed with the department store Mervyn's for the fund-raiser Bases to Benefit. Through July 14, fans of the NBC daytime drama can bid on baseball field bases decorated and autographed by their favorite stars.

The base being auctioned by the "Days" group is signed by Kristian Alfonso, John Aniston, Melissa Reeves and several others. It's decorated with an hourglass and has the "Days" logo on it.

The money raised by the auction benefits RBI (Reviving Baseball in Inner Cities). The program is a grassroots effort designed to promote youth interest in baseball and encourage disadvantaged kids to stay in school. In all, RBI has helped more than 120,000 kids since its creation in 1989.

Other bases are autographed by the casts of "Buffy the Vampire Slayer," "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation," "24" and "The King of Queens," as well as Billy Crystal, Cindy Crawford and Shawn Green. For more information, visit <http://www.mlb.com>.

Dear Candace: Why don't the writers of "The Bold and the Beautiful" get a grip? Brooke (Katherine Kelly Lang) is a man-hungry witch and always will be. Is there anyone she hasn't slept with?

Now, they are making her out as this poor little woman who has been treated wrong. I don't understand why Eric (John McCook) has to be so pathetic. The only man on that show with any strength is Massimo (Joseph Mascolo). For goodness sakes, give Brooke what she has coming to her. -N.J. Clark, Casper, Wyo.

Dear Reader: The controversy surrounding Brooke has been going on since she was introduced to the show. That's what makes her a great character.

Dear Candace: I loved the jewelry Jennifer wore during her wedding on "Days of Our Lives." Do you know who made it? -Marianne via the Internet.

Dear Reader: Charles Winston designed the necklace and earrings. Replicas of the pieces can be found on <http://www.soapcity.com>.

Annie (Catherine Hicks) doesn't expect her wish to come true when she wants to know what's said in Eric's (Stephen Collins) therapy sessions in "It's Not Always About You." She's invit-

Movie: The Graduate

Mike Nichols received a richly deserved Oscar for his smart, witty direction of this 1967 comedy about a young man who is seduced by his mother's friend, then falls in love with the woman's daughter. Dustin Hoffman's seemingly artless performance in the title role, backed by the haunting Simon & Garfunkel musical score, deftly captured the spirit of a generation. Anne Bancroft and Katharine Ross also star.

The approach of widower Andy's (Treat Williams) wedding anniversary — his first without his wife — takes a toll on his emotions in "Till Death Do Us Part." Uncharacteristically, he despairs about his future. A field trip draws Ephram and Amy (Gregory Smith, Emily VanCamp) closer, and Dr. Abbott (Tom Amandes) resists his wife's (Merrilyn Gann) efforts to get him to learn salsa dancing.

For Love or Money

Some unscripted series have had problems when background checks have failed to turn up certain information — and for a while, the revelations about this show's Rob Campos just wouldn't stop. First, there was his dismissal from the military after he allegedly groped a female officer. Then, his law firm decided to "disassociate" itself from him. His 15 minutes are up in this season finale, as he chooses his supposedly ideal mate.

The 1941 campaign by thousands of Filipino and U.S. soldiers to protect the Philippines' Bataan Peninsula from Japanese forces failed, resulting in their capture and internment. As World War II drew to a close three years later, a mere 500 of the prisoners remained alive. A mission by U.S. Army Rangers to save them, before Japanese officers could kill them, is recalled in the new episode "Bataan Rescue."

Larry David: Curb Your Enthusiasm

The co-creator of "Seinfeld" recalls his earlier career in stand-up comedy in this special, the basis for David's later, award-winning series. Like the weekly version, this program purposely blurs the line between fiction and fact, since it follows David from the time he first pitches HBO programmers on the idea of having his own showcase. Jerry Seinfeld, Jason Alexander and Richard Lewis appear as themselves.

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

That '70s Show

Jackie (Mila Kunis) has a bad reaction — to put it mildly — to finding Kelso and Annette (Ashton Kutcher, guest star Jessica Simpson) in a romantic clinch in "Babe, I'm Gonna Leave You." When Hyde (Danny Masterson) witnesses the fit Jackie throws, he becomes convinced he has no future with her. Donna (Laura Prepon) is determined to get into Bea's (Betty White) good graces.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS

Secrets of the Dead

Undersea expeditions to the remains of the famed, doomed luxury liner Titanic have drawn a lot of attention, but questions remain about many of those who were on board — especially for their descendants. "Titanic's Ghosts" uses modern forensic techniques in seeking information on several of the people who literally went down with the ship. DNA tests are used in an effort to identify some of the bodies.

7 p.m. on 54-UPN

Enterprise

An assault aboard the shuttlepod leaves Trip (Connor Trinneer) no option but to crash-land on an isolated moon in "Dawn." He matches wits and stamina with an alien determined to kill him, but who wins the battle will be a moot point when the sun comes up. Archer (Scott Bakula) tries to negotiate with others of the alien's kind to prevent Trip and his pursuer from being incinerated.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order

The death of a Russian model in a boutique leads Briscoe and Green (Jerry Orbach, Jesse L. Martin) to make an initial determination that she was an abuse victim in "House Calls." A toxicology report then reveals her use of several narcotics in tandem, sending the police detectives after the physician who issued the prescriptions to her.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS

Martin Luther

The story of the German monk who made his mark on history by openly opposing the Catholic Church is recounted in this new documentary, filmed throughout Europe and narrated by Liam Neeson. The first half, "Driven to Defiance," details the impact that monastery life had on Luther's views. The concluding hour, "The Reluctant Revolutionary," recalls efforts by church superiors to halt Luther's influential critiques.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

The Twilight Zone

A clinic patient (Jeffrey Combs, "Re-Animator") is told by his doctor (Sydney Tamiia Poitier, "Abby") that he may be carrying a devastating alien plague in "The Placebo Effect." The hour's second story, "Cold Fusion," sends a physicist (Sean Patrick Flanery, "Powder") to an Arctic laboratory, where he clashes with the inventor (Ian McShane) of a revolutionary power source.

8 p.m. and BRAV

The 34th Annual Songwriters Hall of Fame Awards

The yearly event pays tribute to another diverse group of music icons: Tony Bennett, Phil Collins, Patti LaBelle, Little Richard, Van Morrison, Queen, tunesmith Jimmy Webb ("By the Time I Get to Phoenix") and record-company impresario Clive Davis, who has been in business lately with "American Idol" winners Kelly Clarkson and Ruben Studdard. Performers include Billy Joel, Pink, Ray Charles and Wynonna Judd.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Cupid

Simon Cowell has learned plenty about unscripted series as an "American Idol" judge, and he starts one of his own as executive producer of this show, premiering here. Ad copywriter Lisa Shannon seeks the man of her dreams, with each candidate getting just 30 seconds to make his mark. With the help of Lisa's girlfriends, Kimberly Tarter and Laura Restum, the field will be reduced to 10 finalists. Brian McFayden is the host.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order

The fatal bludgeoning of a luxury-car salesman in Harlem leads Briscoe and Green (Jerry Orbach, Jesse L. Martin) to the victim's last customer in "Star Crossed." That young man turns out to be mentally challenged, so the prosecutors (Sam Waterston, Elisabeth Rohm) set out to prove his girlfriend (Vanessa Ferlito) steered him into committing the murder.

Saturday Best Bets

1:30 p.m. on 6-NBC

NASCAR Racing

Maybe the expectations are weighing on Johnny Sauter. Last year, the son of racing legend Jim Sauter took over the car driven to a Busch championship in 2001 by Kevin Harvick and managed a 15th-place finish in points. His only win came at Chicagoland Speedway, a title he defends today in the Busch Series' Tropicana Twister 300 in Joliet, Ill. After 15 starts this season, Sauter stood in ninth place, but had yet to post his second career win.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: Deep Rising

It's not the S.S. Poseidon, but another luxury liner holds danger for unsuspecting plunderers in this 1998 horror tale. Treat Williams ("Everwood") stars as one of the fortune seekers who board the ship and find a bizarre creature stalking the few survivors. Famke Janssen ("X2: X-Men United") plays another thief who gets more than she bargained for. Djimon Hounsou ("Amistad") and Anthony Heald ("Boston Public") also appear.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Just Shoot Me

Curtailed by NBC, the comedy series' final season resumes with the new episode "The Talented Mr. Finch." After forgetting to tell Jack (George Segal) about an appointment with foreign clients, Finch (David Spade) tries to take his place without Jack finding out. Fearing she's a negative influence on her granddaughter (guest star Sasha Barrese), Nina (Wendie Malick) decides to reform herself.

7 p.m. and AMC

Movie: Saturday Night Fever

Long before he danced with Uma Thurman in the 1994 hit "Pulp Fiction," John Travolta took to the dance floor in this 1977 drama. He plays Tony Manero, a Brooklyn teen who lives for Saturday nights when he escapes his humdrum life by heading to the disco. He teams with a pseudo-sophisticate (Karen Lynn Gorney) for a big dance contest. The film also features Donna Pescow and that incredible Bee Gees soundtrack.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Minority Report

Tom Cruise teams with director Steven Spielberg in an intriguing 2002 science-fiction adventure that boasts plentiful special effects. Cruise plays a police detective in a futuristic world where genetically altered people can predict murders. Foreseen as a would-be killer, the cop turns fugitive with one of his peers (Colin Farrell) in hot pursuit. The Philip K. Dick story co-stars Samantha Morton and Max von Sydow.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: Critical Assembly

Out to prove a point, two college students — played by Katherine Heigl ("Roswell") and Kerr Smith ("Dawson's Creek") — build a nuclear weapon in this new suspense TV movie. They don't suspect their creation will be stolen by another student, who passes the bomb along to a terrorist targeting San Francisco. J. August Richards ("Angel") co-stars.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Dragnet

A wealthy college student's murder first appears to be the result of a botched drug deal in "The Big Ruckus." Friday and Smith (Ed O'Neill, Ethan Embry) then find the killing isn't an isolated case, which changes the direction of the investigation. The story was directed by Kevin Hooks ("Sounder"), whose father, Robert Hooks, is among the guest stars.

David Spade

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

The District

"Where There's Smoke" was co-written by Brigid O'Connor Maple, the widow of police officer Jack Maple, on whose life this series is based. Fed up with budget hits from litigation over the city's potholes, Mannion (Craig T. Nelson) takes on the Commissioner of the Department of Roads and Highways. Temple and DeBreno (Sean Patrick Thomas, Jonathan LaPaglia) seek missing evidence for a fraud trial.

9:30 p.m. on HBO

Boxing

It's possible Vernon Forrest underrated Ricardo Mayorga before their first fight. Or, Mayorga is the better fighter, which no one thought to be true prior to his knockout of Forrest last January to claim the world welterweight title. The truth is probably somewhere in between, and it's revealed tonight during the rematch from Las Vegas. The evening begins with Zab Judah taking on DeMarcus Corley in a junior welterweight bout.

(Ratings for each film begin with a "star" rating - one star meaning "poor," four meaning "excellent" - followed by the Motion Picture Association of America rating, and then by a family-viewing guide, the key for which appears below.)

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"PHONE BOOTH": The next time you pass a ringing pay phone, you'll probably think twice about answering it if you've seen director Joel Schumacher's tense, ingeniously economical melodrama. Colin Farrell plays a smarmy publicist trapped in the title booth when an unseen caller (voice of Kiefer Sutherland) threatens to shoot him if he tries to leave. Radha Mitchell plays the Farrell character's wife, with Katie Holmes ("Dawson's Creek") portraying his mistress. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by Schumacher.  (R: AS, P, V)

"BASIC": John Travolta and Samuel L. Jackson made a memorable movie duo in "Pulp Fiction," and though they both star in this military mystery, don't bank on seeing them together much. Offering a solid performance in a de-javu story, Travolta plays a DEA agent looking into the disappearances of a fierce drill sergeant (Jackson) and some trainees. The investigator is teamed with a lieutenant (Connie Nielsen, "Gladiator") who doesn't appreciate having to share her turf. John McTiernan ("Die Hard") directed. DVD extra: theatrical trailer.  (R: AS, P, V)

"BARTLEBY": A sort of variation on the cult comedy "Office Space," this knowing satire of workplace politics

casts Crispin Glover ("Charlie's Angels") in the title role of a new hire who quickly makes his presence known. He refuses to carry out the wishes of his boss (David Paymer); gently at first, but more assertively as he continues to stand his ground. Co-workers marvel at what he gets away with. Glenn Headly, Joe Piscopo and Maury Chaykin ("Entrapment") co-star. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by director Jonathan Parker; "making-of" documentary; photo gallery.  (PG-13: AS, P)

"LA FEMME NIKITA: THE COMPLETE FIRST SEASON": To the ever-growing ranks of TV shows available on DVD, add this clever, consistently challenging spinoff of the French movie classic about a government assassin. Peta Wilson became a star as a criminal forced to work for authorities she despises; she comes to question the immorality that once was a major element of her own lifestyle. Roy Dupuis plays another operative with whom Nikita forges a complex relationship.  (Not rated: AS, P, V)

"THE GIN GAME": Television legends Dick Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore reunite - reason enough for watching - in a PBS production of D.L. Coburn's Pulitzer Prize-winning play. Weller (Van Dyke) and Fonsia (Moore) are nursing-home residents who try to overcome their mutual loneliness by engaging in spirited card games. With each hand dealt, their respective personalities begin to emerge, making each of them more determined to win.  (Not rated: AS, P)

"KEEP THE FAITH, BABY": Originally made for Showtime, this fine 2002 docudrama stars Harry Lennix ("The Five Heartbeats") as Adam Clayton Powell Jr., the Harlem minister who became the second African-American member of Congress. Early in his career, Powell was a tireless crusader for civil rights, organizing rent strikes and other protests. Later, in Washington, D.C., he faced down individual and institutional racism wherever he found it - and made plenty of enemies along the way. Vanessa L. Williams plays Powell's wife, Hazel.  (PG: AS, P)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"CONFESSIONS OF A DANGEROUS MIND" (July 15): George Clooney's directorial debut stars Sam Rockwell as game-show mogul - and alleged CIA spy - Chuck Barris. (R: AS, P, V)

"GODS & GENERALS" (July 15): The roots of the Civil War are recalled in another epic from the makers of "Gettysburg." Robert Duvall and Jeff Daniels star. (PG-13: V)

"PINOCCHIO" (July 15): Dubbed by Breckin Meyer ("Kate & Leopold"), Roberto Benigni plays the screen's oldest incarnation yet of the wooden puppet who wants to be a real boy. (G)

"SHANGHAI KNIGHTS" (July 15): Jackie Chan and Owen Wilson reunite in this sequel to the action-comedy "Shanghai Noon," taking them to London in pursuit of a killer. (PG-13: AS, V)

"FINAL DESTINATION 2" (July 22): In the tradition of the original thriller, several friends escape the Grim Reaper, who remains determined to come calling. (R: AS, GV, N, P)

"THE LIFE OF DAVID GALE" (July 22): A reporter (Kate Winslet) defends a professor (Kevin Spacey) accused of killing a fellow anti-capital-punishment activist (Laura Linney). (R: AS, N, P, V)

Witty 'Dead Gorgeous' kicks off lively 'Mystery!' season

PBS' popular "Mystery!" series launches its 2003 summer season not with a bang, but with a simper.

"Dead Gorgeous," the aptly named black comedy that serves as a season opener on Sunday, July 6, is a witty and suspenseful gender-switch on Alfred Hitchcock's "Strangers on a Train," as two old chums (Helen McCrory, Fay Ripley) in postwar London decide to "trade murders" to liberate themselves from suffocating marriages.

Of the two, plain-Jane Rose Bell (Ripley, "Cold Feet") faces the far more serious situation: Her husband, Barry (Jonny Phillips), not only is abusive, but he has a secret second family that is a critical financial drain.

Flamboyant Antonia (McCrory, "Anna Karenina") faces a more prosaic scenario: Her wealthy Czech refrigerator tycoon husband, Hector (Ron Cook), bores her to tears, especially compared to her studly young college professor lover (Lloyd Owen), who is Princeton-bound with or without Antonia in tow.

Events take a somewhat predictable turn up to a gratifyingly startling finale, but they do so punctuated by a deliciously over-the-top performance by McCrory, an actress whose Anna Karenina broke the hearts of "Masterpiece Theatre" viewers, but who clearly relishes this opportunity to play comedy.

Her Antonia is a cousin to those delightful bad girls of "Absolutely Fabulous," a live-for-the-moment madcap with a distinctly pragmatic way of viewing life — and death, for that matter. She's the type of woman who addresses everyone as "darling," even if she has to snarl the word while threatening an adversary with a butcher knife.

And McCrory is supreme at knowing how to 'work' her period costumes and props.

"The clothes were a huge help," she says. "You can't slouch in them. They force you to walk in a certain way and with a certain panache."

"They are clothes to be seen and admired. There's no mistake about anything in Antonia's wardrobe!"

Or in McCrory's performance. For a miniclass in great acting, watch her face as Antonia first catches a glimpse of old pal Rose in a queue. The eyes meet, then bore inquisitively into their target, even as Antonia's body briskly tries to carry her away. It's a tiny but indelible comic moment.

The actress admits that while roles such as "Anna Karenina" provide their own rewards, she loves a chance to bust loose in a comic role such as this one.

"Antonia lives life with aplomb and great gusto," McCrory says. "She knows it's vulgar to walk around with half a ton of diamonds on her, but she doesn't give a fig."

"She's very funny, and the most selfish characters are always the most fun to play, because they are totally child-like; they see the world just from their angle. Antonia is so larger than life, she's very Jessica Rabbit!" the actress says, referring to the literally overdrawn sexpot character in "Who Framed Roger Rabbit."

Antonia sweeps through London on the priceless wheels of a classic Bentley, although McCrory says the car's owner blanched to learn that she was a non-driver herself.

"You should have seen the face of the (owner) as I walked toward it with my long talons," she says. "He nervously said, 'She won't be doing anything in it, will she?' The Bentley was far more expensive than anything or anybody
